Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer moving image file is deemed objectionable under s3(2)(b) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 because it promotes and supports the use of violence and coercion to compel any person to submit to sexual conduct. The two distinct scenes in the publication depict men using sexual violence and sexual coercion to force the women to participate in and submit to sexual assault. The second scene depicts the woman repeatedly raped by two men.

The classification of this publication interferes with the freedom of expression as set out in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990, but this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention that publications falling under s3(2) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression that reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to limit the availability of publications that promote and support the use of violence and coercion to compel any person to submit to sexual conduct.
